ABSTRACT

A key maintenance method and system includes maintaining, in a datastore, a first-level access key that grants, to a medical service provider, a level of access to a set of medical records of a patient. The first-level access key is retrieved and a second-level access key is generated by modifying the level of access of the first-level access key.